The Democratic Band Wagon.

The Democratic band wagon is the greatest political hit that was ever made in Christian county. Three more big meetings were held and nearly 1,500 people were addressed and fifteen miles of territory covered.

The meetings are growing every day, and the third day culminated in two monster meetings, only three miles apart, in which there were nearly a thousand people. The speakers were divided, and Hon. W. R. Howell spoke to the miners at Empire, while the others addressed the main meeting at Crofton, a Republican stronghold.

In the Southern part of Kentucky a Democratic band wagon is a very unique feature of the campaign. The wagon carries a band and several orators and is making a successful campaign in several counties. It attracts large crowds.
